CONCENTRATED LYE.

A MONUMENTAL mass of lustrous article is now by

Druggist in Montreal, for which has been borrowed the name Extract of Soap—and by the way, perhaps he can sell it as well as what he extract of soap means. Will this individual be too kind of him and turn on some large developed, for he has tried his hand on the majority of popular articles which have been brought out for the last few years.

This initiation, this borrowing of other people's names, trading on the reputation of an old established house, of which, by a strange disposition of Providence, he has got the management, is palpable of his Extract on the public in place of the genuine. Purchasers will notice that the "genuine" has the subscribers' address stamped on each tin. For as for all the leading Druggists and Grocers throughout the Dominion.

A. W. Fairbanks, Chairman of the occasion, called upon W. W. Armstrong, of the Plain Dealer. That gentleman responded in a felicitous speech, assuring the guests of

Mr. Clarke made a happy response, saying that they had thoroughly enjoyed the visit and cordially reciprocated the fraternal feeling expressed by the Cleveland gentlemen. They enjoyed themselves well, he thought, the previous (say at Buffalo, but they surely had enjoyed more their visit at Cleveland. Although not fully prepared to admit that Cleveland was the "most beautiful city in America," for they had been in Canada, he would not match against it. He would say that it was a more beautiful city than Buffalo, albeit their impression of the latter were extremely favorable. The only thing he saw here that disturbed him in the least was the sign "Pension Hall" upon one of the buildings. (Great laughter) They had reason to be a little sore over this and he hoped their recent experience would not be repeated. He said that he had been very happy to cultivate the most lasting relations with their American cousins, as closed by proposing the sentiment: "Pro- parity to the United States in general and the Forest City in particular."

This was drank amid great enthusiasm; the gentlemen of the party rising to the feet and giving three hearty "Hip, hip, hurrahs!" evincing excellent vocal ability. W. N. Hudson, of the Leader, was called

Mr. Armstrong then called upon Mr. Wylie, who he said was a "young man for a speech." Mr. Wylie, of the Brockville Recorder, is the Nestor of the Canadian press, having, as he said in his response, breathed the air of a newspaper office since 1826. He made a few appropriate and feeling remarks, expressing the hearty met in Cleveland. Mr. Wylie was President of the Association during the past year, and placed having been filled on Thursday, the passage to this port, by the election of E. Jackson, of the Newmarket Era.

James Young, Member of Parliament from Galt, was then called upon. He spoke of the friendly relations now existing between this country and Canada, and pressed a fervent hope those ties of friendship would never be sundered, but rather that the two countries would continue to grow more and more together in the mutual sympathies, and although he did not favor annexation, still he admitted republicanism form of government, and at seem to succeed so well. He paid a tribute to the beauty of the Forest City, as to its hospitality, he said they had heard of that but being privileged to participate of it, they felt as did the Queen of Sheba when she paid a visit to Solomon that the half had not been told them ("Hear 'hear" and great applause). He desired once more to express their thanks to the Mayor and the members of the Cleveland press. He concluded by proposing the toast of the "Cleveland Press." The drunk standing in the crowd again giving three rousing cheers and breaking forth spontaneously into a chorus—

"For they are jolly good fellows,
Which no one can deny!"

Mr. Wyloe warned the company that the fourteen minutes must close, as they had but a short time to reach the steamer, and after a brief response to the last sentiment, and a few words of farewell, by G. A. Benedict, it was a party dispersed at 8 o'clock. The occasion was a thoroughly enjoyable one to all who participated, and will not soon pass from memory. The excursionists left shortly before nine o'clock for Windsor.

A Compromising Spirit.

Recently, in New Orleans, a sable Adonis

ness in a wave of assault and battery. The pugilists were of the same obnoxious hue with Edward himself, and a little enquiry as to the cause of the disturbance soon revealed the fact that they both claimed the dukedom of Lothario as their husband. Both asserted that they were lawfully married to him, and the severest cross examination failed to disclose any flaw in the statements of either. "Why, you rascal, you must be a bigamist," said the judge, turning wrathfully towards Edward.

"Sir!

"You have married both of these women."

"Yes, sir—but they needn't fight about it," rejoined the judge.

"Don't you know that this is a criminal

'Sar I' replied Edward—the white of his eye enlarging, and looking into the judge's face.

'I have to arrest you for bigamy.'

'Dat so I'

'Yes.'

'Den don't say no mo' 'bout it, and I'll lib wid em both,' rejoined the complacent Edward, adjusting his hat, and walking leisurely from the court room.

the Straits, and also protect the canal of Alexandria and its communication with the port and with the fortified camp of Sonderburg on the same island. Doppel, the result of the conflict with the Danes in 1865, is close to Sonderburg, and both are garrisoned by the Ninth Corps d'Armee.

Stettin is garrisoned by troops from the Second Corps, and is governed by Lieut. Gen. Freyhold.

Danzig is garrisoned from the First Corps, and is commanded by Gen. von Broek.

Straßburg and Schweidnitz are both small cities, of more historical than real importance.

Kiel, which is on the mainland of the Province of Schleswig, is most strongly fortified, is heavily garrisoned with troops from the Ninth Corps, and is commanded by Gen. von Plat.

It is an artillery officer of great skill and experience.

Mamel is a very small garrison.

Koenigsberg is a very important city, and has a large garrison. It is under the command of Gen. von Herwarth of the First Corps.

Of the fortresses on the Rhine and its vicinity, the most important are Mayence, Rastatt, Ehrenbreitstein and Cologne.

MAYENCE was formerly a city of the German Confederation, the old Zollverein, and was garrisoned by Austria and Prussia.

Its peculiarly dangerous position, being on the left bank of the Rhine and greatly covered by the French, led to its fortifications being the strongest character. It was originally garrisoned by 10,000 men.

After the decisive defeat of Austria in the late conflict, it was agreed by the treaty of Prague that its fortifications should be dismantled and its garrison withdrawn.

This stipulation was violated on Austria, but the Prussians have never carried out the conditions, and Mayence is at this moment one of the strongest cities in the world.

The four lines of work and great strength of the fortifications, which is on the upper bank of the Rhine, this city of Mayence, is opposite to the mouth of this river, which here falls into the Rhine.

It is a city of 100,000 inhabitants, and is connected by a railway. A bridge some 1,000 feet long connects it with the fortified suburb of Cassel. It has now a very large garrison, and is commanded by Prince Waldemar of Schleswig-Holstein.

RASTATT is on the right bank of the Rhine, and is very strongly fortified. It is in the territory of Baden-Baden, and formerly held by the Prussians for the German Confederation.

Since Baden-Baden has been Prussian, it is situated some 14 miles south of Cassel, and some 30 from Strasbourg, and will unquestionably be a point of capital importance in the coming struggle.

Its fortifications are on the Vauban system, and declared to be the product of engineering, but experience has proved that earthworks are stronger than stone walls.

There are three large forts on the little river, and the town of Rastatt, which has many bastions, ditches, curtains, glacis and lunettes, but the chief strength will probably be in the fortified camp which is situated on the left bank of the Rhine.

It is about to form there. Should it be necessary to withdraw its garrison, it could be easily replaced by Baden soldiers, the Grand Duke having shown the most unimpeachable sympathy for the Prussian cause.

EHRENBREITSTEIN is the fortress par excellence of Prussia, and is regarded as the Gibraltar of the Rhine. It is on the right bank of the Rhine opposite to Cologne.

It is connected with the town by a bridge of boats. Part of the fortifications lie at the foot of the hill, 468 feet in height, and almost perpendicular, but since it was taken by the French in 1796 and again in 1799, its fortifications have been weakened and quadrupled in strength, and the town has been turned into a fortress.

It has been thought unnecessary to scarp the steep sides, though it is in record that the British tourist accompanied by a barrier made the ascent to the inner citadel of a warty. The garrison amounts to 14,000 men, and has been hitherto under the command of Governor Prinszky, who belongs to the Eighth Army Corps, commanded by Gen. Herwarth.

His headquarters are in Cologne on the opposite side of the river. The troops are furnished with water by an artesian well, and the fortress contains a steam cooking apparatus of unprecedented magnitude. Provisions for three years are continually kept in store, and the greatest precautions are taken to prevent a knowledge of the fortifications falling into the hands of strangers.

When the French had been driven from the town, the French, and was taken only on one occasion in 1799, when the garrison was forced to surrender from lack of supplies.

The chief danger now is from hills in the rear, which command the lower reaches of the fortifications, and the lower reaches of the fortifications, but through much of the ascent, it is possible to take it by regular ascent, and a coup de main.

Artillery is mounted with 600 pieces of artillery, and its lines cost $3,700,000. Cologne may be considered under the same head. It is situated on the confluence of the Moselle and the Rhine, and its fortifications are built by the famous Vauban, being improved afterward by Montebello.

Its garrison is very large, and is held by the Eighth Corps in time of war. Cologne is a large city, and is well accommodated 100,000 men.

Cologne was taken by the French during the 1794, after a very fierce struggle. The French built the Maginot Line, and the fortifications, and fortified it with a large garrison.

COLOGNE is on the left bank of the Rhine, 45 miles above Cologne. It is built close upon the river, in the form of a crescent, and is connected with the town of Cologne by a bridge of boats.

It is surrounded by walls of very ancient date, which form a circuit of several miles. Outside these walls are not considered of any strength, and are regarded as a considerable suburb. But there are strong fortifications in the river in front of the bridge, and there is a large garrison stationed there.

Eight Army Corps, under Lieut.-General Franksen, and this nucleus of an army will probably be increased very considerably, for Cologne is a strategic point.

The nucleus of the army is the Danes in 1865, is close to Sonderburg, and both are garrisoned by the Ninth Corps d'Armee.

Stettin is garrisoned by troops from the Second Corps, and is governed by Lieut. Gen. Freyhold.

Danzig is garrisoned from the First Corps, and is commanded by Gen. von Broek.

Since Baden-Baden has been Prussian, it is situated some 14 miles south of Cassel, and some 30 from Strasbourg, and will unquestionably be a point of capital importance in the coming struggle.

Its fortifications are on the Vauban system, and declared to be the product of engineering, but experience has proved that earthworks are stronger than stone walls.

There are three large forts on the little river, and the town of Rastatt, which has many bastions, ditches, curtains, glacis and lunettes, but the chief strength will probably be in the fortified camp which is situated on the left bank of the Rhine.

It is about to form there. Should it be necessary to withdraw its garrison, it could be easily replaced by Baden soldiers, the Grand Duke having shown the most unimpeachable sympathy for the Prussian cause.

EHRENBREITSTEIN is the fortress par excellence of Prussia, and is regarded as the Gibraltar of the Rhine. It is on the right bank of the Rhine opposite to Cologne.

It is connected with the town by a bridge of boats. Part of the fortifications lie at the foot of the hill, 468 feet in height, and almost perpendicular, but since it was taken by the French in 1796 and again in 1799, its fortifications have been weakened and quadrupled in strength, and the town has been turned into a fortress.

It has been thought unnecessary to scarp the steep sides, though it is in record that the British tourist accompanied by a barrier made the ascent to the inner citadel of a warty. The garrison amounts to 14,000 men, and has been hitherto under the command of Governor Prinszky, who belongs to the Eighth Army Corps, commanded by Gen. Herwarth.

His headquarters are in Cologne on the opposite side of the river. The troops are furnished with water by an artesian well, and the fortress contains a steam cooking apparatus of unprecedented magnitude. Provisions for three years are continually kept in store, and the greatest precautions are taken to prevent a knowledge of the fortifications falling into the hands of strangers.

When the French had been driven from the town, the French, and was taken only on one occasion in 1799, when the garrison was forced to surrender from lack of supplies.

The chief danger now is from hills in the rear, which command the lower reaches of the fortifications, and the lower reaches of the fortifications, but through much of the ascent, it is possible to take it by regular ascent, and a coup de main.

Artillery is mounted with 600 pieces of artillery, and its lines cost $3,700,000. Cologne may be considered under the same head. It is situated on the confluence of the Moselle and the Rhine, and its fortifications are built by the famous Vauban, being improved afterward by Montebello.

Its garrison is very large, and is held by the Eighth Corps in time of war. Cologne is a large city, and is well accommodated 100,000 men.

Cologne was taken by the French during the 1794, after a very fierce struggle. The French built the Maginot Line, and the fortifications, and fortified it with a large garrison.

COLOGNE is on the left bank of the Rhine, 45 miles above Cologne. It is built close upon the river, in the form of a crescent, and is connected with the town of Cologne by a bridge of boats.

It is surrounded by walls of very ancient date, which form a circuit of several miles. Outside these walls are not considered of any strength, and are regarded as a considerable suburb. But there are strong fortifications in the river in front of the bridge, and there is a large garrison stationed there.

A Cemetery.

It is about time the people of this town looked this cemetery question fairly in the face, and took effective steps to procure suitable ground for one. The town is rapidly increasing in population, and the yards are fast filling up, and if there were no sanitary reasons for burying the dead outside the limits of the town, the want of room in the cemetery would very soon compel the purchase of additional ground. But we should not wait until the last six feet of ground in the church yards is taken up.

In the vicinity of the cemetery, we have to pay probably from 20 to 25 per cent more to day than if we had purchased six or eight years ago. Every year's delay will add to the cost, and if there were no other ground, that of economy alone should induce the authorities to procure land for a cemetery without delay.

But there are other and weightier reasons why prompt action should be taken in this matter. A large portion of the water used in the heart of the town is filtered through the grave yards, and cannot but be injurious to those compelled to use it. The effluvia arising from these grounds in a hot day is most offensive, and seriously endangers the health of the inhabitants.

To guard the health of the people, and prevent the ravages of epidemics, it is therefore of the first importance that no more interments of the dead should be made in our present grave yards.

It is gratifying to note that public attention is again being called to this question, and although the efforts made heretofore have been abortive, we trust the promoters of this scheme will not be discouraged on that account. If prompt and vigorous measures be taken, the land can be secured and a cemetery opened within a few months. We understand the authorities of the Wesleyan Methodist Church have appointed a Committee to confer with any other Committee which may be appointed by the town. Would it not be well for the other Churches to take action in this matter?

Cricketing Extraordinary.

A game of cricket was lately played between the Oxford and Cambridge cricket clubs, which resulted in favor of Cambridge. The Cambridge club had had their two innings, and the Oxford team went in to get the last wicket. When 7 o'clock came, the time to draw stumps, but everybody considered the Cambridge Club bested—the Oxford Club having only six wickets down, and requiring two to six, and three that they therefore thought it advisable to finish the game. Play being resumed, there occurred some of the most extraordinary playing on record. The first ball that was bowled out the first man in the b. w. the next man was wrenched out of the ground, and the fourth had his bat sent spinning in the air, and at half past seven the game was over, the Cambridge Club winning the game by six wickets.

The last four on the Oxford Club (all first class cricketers) did not manage to score a single run. Thus ended one of the most exciting games of cricket that ever came off between these fine clubs.

St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, Aug. 4, 1870.

To MACINTOSH BROTHERS, M. G. Grand Master British America, Belleville.

MOST WORTHY AND DEAR GENTLEMEN—Allow me, before leaving British North America, to express my sincere thanks for the hospitality and kindness which you have given me everywhere on my mission.

It will be our duty, as well as our greatest pleasure, to lay before the respective Grand Lodges of England, Ireland and Scotland, the present admirable state of our noble and time-honored institution in this portion of the British Empire.

I assure you that we have back heartily strengthened, and have no doubt that our intercommunal relations will be equalled in strength and uprightness to the utmost of our power—old, original, and fundamental principles of our Order, Loyalty and Protestantism, and the Protestant Constitution that placed Her ancestors on the Throne of these Realms, and which we have sworn to uphold in Word, deed and spirit, and finally, Peace on Earth, and good will toward all men. Believe me, most faithfully and intensely, Yours obliged,

What War Costs before it begins.

The London Economist, of July 10th, has undertaken to estimate the amount of loss in the depreciation of public securities, caused by the declaration of war. This is but one item in the destruction of value effected by the mere approach of war, but it is alone of enormous extent. The Economist's figures are based on the list in securities in the eight days between July 4, 1870, and the first alarm in the French Chamber of Deputies, and July 12, when the war panic first reached its height.

In this one week the value of French rentes fell £200,000,000; that of British consols £25,000,000; that of Italian bonds £21,000,000; that of United States bonds £12,000,000; and the total loss of value in the national securities sold in London was no less than £70,000,000, or not far from £400,000,000, without including the stocks of Germany, Austria, Belgium, Holland, and some other countries, of which no sales are made in London.

In the railway stocks a similar depression took place, and in those of eleven prominent English lines, there was a fall in value of £4,485,000. The total loss to the investors by the mere declaration of this aggressive war is certainly far more than five hundred millions of dollars. What an aggregate of individual suffering does war imply!

WHAT MCMONAH INTENDS DOING.

THE GERMAN SITUATION.

New York, August 4.—A cable telegram to the 'Herald' says:

CARLEBURG, Aug. 4 (6.30 p.m.)—There was heavy fighting at Weissenbourg yesterday. To-day's fighting at Weissenbourg, between the French and Prussian, between Weissenbourg and Landau, ten miles into French territory, driving back the advanced posts of the French and destroying several miles of the railway between Landau and Strasbourg, along which it is supposed McMahon was supposed to advance. The French loss was heavy, including many prisoners.

Later—The Prussian victory at Weissenbourg was decisive. The troops engaged were the remnants of the Fifth and Eleventh Army Corps of Bavaria, led by the Crown Prince to person. The French force consisted of General Douay's division of McMahon's corps. Weissenbourg and Gertel in the rear of that town were carried by storm at the point of the bayonet after obstinate resistance. The Crown Prince commanded the French troops. The advance of General Douay's division, with two officers of his staff. The French engagement, one piece of artillery, the French troops, including many French, fell into the hands of the Prussians. On the German side, Gen. Kirsch was wounded. The German Guard and the 30th Regiment suffered severely.

The 'Times' has received the following:—
"London, Aug. 4.—The Tribune's special correspondent telegraphed from the Prussian headquarters that the Crown Prince's army has passed Weissenbourg. The troops of the 11th and 12th Prussian army corps, reinforced by the second Bavarian corps, engaged General Douay's division of McMahon's corps. The French were driven off the field, and the Prussians now occupy the French camp. Several hundred French soldiers were taken prisoners. The Prussian loss was considerable. No movement is announced from the army of the lower Rhine. The affair at Saarbrücken is regarded here as wholly unimportant. The Prussians at no time contemplated holding that town in force.

Paris, Aug. 4.—The Emperor came to the Tuileries today, and presided at a Council of Ministers. The 'Gazette' says the Emperor will issue a decree making the 'Mémorial' henceforth the national air of France. During the fight at Saarbrücken it was played by the bands.

The following is a special despatch to the 'Herald':—
"Strasbourg, Aug. 3.—Yesterday, after the Count of War, Marshal McMahon, with his Chief of Staff, Gen. Colmar, arrived in the train from Kehl. Breda reports. They visited Breda, 30 miles north of here, where a cavalry division, and the troops of the 11th and 12th Prussian army corps, reinforced by the second Bavarian corps, engaged General Douay's division of McMahon's corps. The French were driven off the field, and the Prussians now occupy the French camp. Several hundred French soldiers were taken prisoners. The Prussian loss was considerable. No movement is announced from the army of the lower Rhine. The affair at Saarbrücken is regarded here as wholly unimportant. The Prussians at no time contemplated holding that town in force.

It is reported that the Prussians are gathered in force in the South, and that a Baden force is in the Black Forest.
London, Aug. 4.—It is reported that Don Ferdinand has accepted the offer of the crown of Spain.

A correspondent of the 'Tribune' writes from Coblenz on Tuesday that the Prussians were in much greater force on the banks of the Saar and the Moselle than is generally supposed. Heavy troops, they do not intend to fall back on Mayence or Mannheim but will hold the French in check from Sierck to Landau. One proof is that long trains of provisions, wagons, and ambulances are seen with them in much too great force for a mere affair of outpost. Moreover, the large square here (Clement Platz) is covered with peasants' wagons laden with bread and biscuit all moving west. Troves are the head-quarters of an army corps.

The Prussian wagon and ambulance service is more perfectly organized and their horses are in better condition than those of the French. The soldiers are in admirable condition. Their enthusiasm is less noisy than that of the enemy, but their confidence is far preferable to such effervescence as I recently witnessed on the other side.

Coblenz is full of landwehr. There are few troops of line there. The fortifications are rapidly being strengthened. Troops are being called in readiness for an attack. All commanding points about the great fortress, the occupation of which would render it indefensible against modern artillery, are now strongly fortified, and the works are rapidly being constructed towards the French side.

"Our special correspondent at Cologne writes on Tuesday that troops are passing steadily through that city going outward, all in excellent condition, and with provisions for six weeks. No enthusiasm surpasses that of the South German regiments, many of which have petitioned to form part of the advance guard.

ELLERS—Carmel, the celebrated blind player has been assassinated by Mexican brigands. It seems that M. Carmel was in the diligence, San Luis de Potosi, when he was attacked by one of the many gangs of highwaymen who infest Mexico, and the passengers were ordered to give up their money and valuables. On Carmel's refusal to comply with the demand, they dragged him from the coach and shot him dead. It is supposed that he had been somewhat imprudent in allowing himself to wear valuable jewelry, and considerable sums of money which he had upon his person, to be seen by strangers, some of whom undoubtedly set the highwaymen on his track.

sunk into the heart of this imaginative people, and united to the thrilling music Haydn, have touched the utmost chords of the German soul. They connected it, in especial manner, with the idea of Germany as a whole; it was their great frontier stream: it recalled the days of the emperors and independence: it had become as it were, the emblem of the Fatherland. It may be easily conceived what effect upon the armies of a people thus excited whose hearts had thrilled to the songs of Körner, whose swords had drunk the blood of Leipzig—the sight of the Rhine when it first burst upon their united and conquering armies, produced. Involuntarily the columns halted when they reached the heights beyond Hoesheim, where winding spread out as a map, beneath the tall; the rear ranks hurried to the front the troops uncovered as they beheld the stream of their fathers, tearing pickled many cheeks; joy too big for utterance swelled every heart; and the enthusiasm passing from rank to rank, soon a thousand voices joined in the cheers which hailed the world that the war of independence was ended and Germany delivered.

The Straw Question.

Much discussion has been going on as to straw, whether it should be sold, consumed or trodden under foot. On all the points have long since come to decided conclusions and, I think, sound ones, for they rest on scientific as well as practical bases. The conclusions are —

1. That all straw returns the gross profit when consumed.
2. The next best alternative is to sell provided it will return not less than 32¢ per ton.
3. That the least profitable mode is

Mr. Horsfall's papers (Vols. 17 and 18) of the Royal Agricultural Society's Journal contain some very conclusive evidence as to its feeding value. Mr. Lawes tells us it is worth very little more than manure. If I could have my own way I would consume every particle of my own manure, and I do consume a great deal; but I do not consume any of my own manure.

in covered and enclosed yards with floors—the latter only requiring one as much straw as the open yards, but could afford to have more cattle I would them all on sparred floors, for 20 years experience has proved it to be a profitable system. As bedding for our horses should always have enough Rivett. W. straw, which is less desirable for cutting. Mr. Young, a livery stable keeper in London, always kept his horses on boarded with intermediate openings, and found great economy of straw. Much of my in a fine season is sold for paper-ma-manure! I consume an immense quantity of straw cut into fine chaff, and mixed with other food. Probably to every ton of food so consumed fully 5 cwt. of cake is added. All my bean-straw is consumed, the long hard stems cut off by the cutter, and afterwards moistened softened by hot water, become mucilaginous and are nearly two-thirds the value of the whole. Only a very few farmers are aware of its value for food. Our folks would as soon tread good hay under foot as to use strong bean stems for litter. Many farmers are not aware that a strong standing of upon green beans (pods, stalks, and leaves) put through the chaff cutter, forms the best of food for cattle, but is apt to hurt horses; and also do know that beans are regularly feed off by sheep.

In conclusion, my experience has taught me that the more live stock I can afford keep, fed to fatness by the consumption cake and other food not produced by farm, aided by an abundant supply of uncomminted and prepared straw, is the and cheap way to produce abundant manure of the best quality, and by thus greatly increasing the fertility of the soil, maximum crops and profit are secured. Puny unprofitable crops are the consequence of shallow and imperfect cultivation, absence of drainage, and above all, want of a full supply of good fish bone made manure. The best of us don't farm for certain crops, and I never hear a farmer being ruined by the over-richness of his soil. Tell me how much fat HANGING BASKETS.—A lady writes to the Rural New Yorker: "A very pretty basket is made by taking spruce cones—mine about seven inches in length—and piercholes about an inch from each end, string them on a wire. Place eight for the lower row, draw closely, and fasten. Then, when stringing the upper part of these, insert one between each two for an upper row and finish off with another wire at the top. They look very well when only one row of cones is used. The cones are easily placed

TELEGRAPHIC ITEMS.

The following is a fair sample of the trash sent over the wires to the daily press. The special from the "Globe" (see correspondence), dated Montreal, August 8th, says: "Some of the best put ties on the Grand Trunk Railroad track, near Madoc, a day or two since, but the trap was unfortunately discovered, just as a train was approaching, in time to prevent a serious catastrophe." In the first place, the Grand Trunk track is some 14 miles south of Madoc, and in the second place, the piling of the ties on the track near Belleville, and was announced in the INTELLIGENCER some days since.

SELECT READINGS.—Miss L. E. Morelle gives a reading in the Marble Hall this evening under the auspices of the "Good Templars" Lodge. "Wig" says of her performance in that city: "This lady gave her promise to read in the City Hall on Tuesday evening as an incidental occasion, and fully sustained the favorable opinion we had previously formed of her talents and ability. Miss Morelle is evidently a lady of rare accomplishments. She is handsome, has a clear voice, and possesses an excellent delivery, and the elements of a tragedienne. The difficult pieces read by her were received by the audience with much applause, rendered, as they were, with self-possession and ease which characterizes much more experienced elocutionists. We very much congratulate Miss Morelle on the favorable impression she has made on the Kingston public."

LOVELL'S DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL DIRECTORIES.—Messrs. Overton & Kewin are in town, and commencing Saturday to revise the proof-sheets of Belleville. They go from door to door in the same manner as was done last spring when the place was first taken. The same is being done with every town of note in Canada, so as to secure a complete and reliable work. On Thursday Mr. Kewin will call upon all professional and business men who have not yet perused their advertisement. When the public will take account the enormous expense now attached to the work, viz: $100,000, and the benefit the publication will be to the community, it is the duty of business men to support them. We may mention for the benefit of the Dominion Directory, that these advertising men, Dominion Directory will have their advertisements in the six Provincial Directories, without extra charge, thus securing to advertisers a wide and general circulation throughout the Province.

—Canada can boast of having the largest fleet of steamboats, owned by one firm in the world. The Messrs. Allan of Montreal have this year more tonnage added to the Canada and their vessels are steadily and deservingly popular with the travelling public.

The War.

The combat, deepened, and the brave are rushing on, a few to glory, many to the grave, while the great machine-maker aims his bolts and plans to promote his ambition designs. It is not likely the check he received at Starbuck and his march on Saturday will stop him in his career, but smarting under his severe defeat he will rush on with greater impetuosity to his impending doom. That doom is certain, and may not be far off. There is rejoicing all over the Protestant world over the Prussian victory, but that rejoicing would be greatly intensified if Napoleon at once and forever got his quinine. He brought on the war without cause, and has made the valleys of the Saar and the Rhine a vast slaughter-house of innocent blood to gratify his wicked purposes. That these purposes will be frustrated is already evident, and the Protestant world will hopefully wait for the news that will announce its final defeat.

What will the end be, who can tell? Will the brave Italian take advantage of the situation, and strike for freedom, and have we already seen the dawn of the day which shall witness the complete and final overthrow of the Pope's temporal power in Rome? Who can tell? The future is big with events; let us hope these events will be big with mercy and blessing to the oppressed of all nations, whether that oppression be of a spiritual or a temporal character.

Police Court.

(Before A. Diamond, Esq., Police Magistrate.)

MONDAY, AUGUST 7.

VAGRANCY.
John Davis made a reappearance in Court this morning on the old charge, and was sent back to the care of Mr. Mayors for 60 days.

The German Flag.

For the first time in the history of modern war, the black-white-and-red flag of the North German Confederation and the tricolor of France will meet on the field of battle. The North German flag is of recent date. It was adopted by the North German Parliament six or eight months after the close of the brilliant campaign of 1866, and its first appearance elicited a shout of derision not only among the people of the North German States, but also among the old German Democrats in all parts of the Fatherland, who still cling affectionately to the old black-and-red-and-gold banner, which in their eyes represented that grand idea of German unification, for the realization of which the people of the Fatherland had been yearning for so many hundreds of years.

The Prussian Needle Gun.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, whose name is familiar in these parts, writes the following interesting paragraphs: "Your description of the needle gun in this morning's issue, is erroneous. Permit me to correct, as follows:

1. The range of the needle-gun is from 1,000 to 1,400 yards, and not four to five miles.
2. The movements of loading are executed with the right hand, and not the left. An upward stroke with the palm of the right hand against the chamber knob opens the breech, the cartridge is inserted into the cavity of the barrel, a push forward and a downward stroke of the knob closes the breech, and another push on the needle chamber with its spiral spring completes the loading, and the rifle is ready for fire."

During the whole movement the gun is held with the left hand, as a "ready."

The gun is a simple affair, and is so simple that it is impossible to do so.

A 4th powder is never ignited at the rear end of the cartridge, but next to the ball, where the igniting material is placed in a kind of a socket of paper-maché, and this is what gives more power to the ball, the powder burning from the front to the rear.

The cartridge is made up—ball in front, ball socket with igniting material, powder, the shape of the ball resembles the shape of a cucumber, and is called long (see illustration).

The recoil of the gun is only felt when it becomes very much heated, and the chamber filled with the refuse of powder.

When clean, no recoil is felt at all.

In case the needle should break, or bend, or otherwise become useless, a new one can be inserted in less than five seconds.

It is not too much the superiority of the needle gun over other breech loaders, which is in the present struggle, secure success to the Prussian army, as it is the thorough education of each individual soldier, and personal familiarity with his weapon.

The needle gun was first used in 1849, in 1849 and 1849, in Baden and Schleswig, and not being deemed effective without an entire change of tactics and especially a thorough instruction, was almost abandoned.

The Prussian army has but one calibre for all small arms; that infantry or sharpshooters can be supplied with cartridges from any cavalry, pistol, or carbine cartridge wagon.

Very respectfully, W. Von Dorn.

—The latest fashion for gentlemen is to wear a scarlet ribbon tied in the buttonhole in the place of a flower.

"Dan," said a little four-year old, "I get me money to buy a monkey."

"You want to buy a monkey?" replied the mother.

"Yes," said the child, "I want to buy a monkey. I want to buy a monkey. I want to buy a monkey."

"Is my face dirty?" asked a young lady from the backwoods, while seated with her aunt at the dinner table on a steamboat.

"Dirty?" No. Why do you ask? Is there anything on your face?"

"No," said the lady, "I am sure there is nothing on my face."

"Then," said the aunt, "I am sure there is nothing on your face."

BEHAVILLE, August 8.—General Steinmetz telegraphs the following particulars of the contest between Von Goeben and the French, under General Frossard. The fight was opened on our side by the 14th Division, which was subsequently reinforced by artillery and a cavalry force, and a bloody struggle ensued, which lasted until night. The heights of Sperters were taken at the point of the bayonet, and the enemy thrown back on Forbach. Meanwhile our 14th Division had advanced from Völklingen, had taken Forbach and reached Forbach at daylight, when the broken divisions of the French army were being driven back upon that point. Here the baggage and camp equipage of two divisions and many prisoners were taken.

New York, July 8.—A special London despatch says that the latest information received from the seat of war this afternoon confirms the news of every particular of the Prussian victory.

The Prussians to-day occupy St. Avoit, the place where McMahon's headquarters were located on Saturday.

General Frossard's corps is in full retreat towards Metz. It is thought he is endeavoring to form a junction with the French forces at Metz. General Frossard is falling back from Metz with McMahon towards Nancy. His corps suffered heavily.

Metz has been hurriedly placed in a state of the North. Every male person in the place has been pressed into service.

General Bismarck is in command of the fortification at Metz.

Napoleon to-day established his headquarters at Châlons-sur-Marne, a point just about half way between Metz and Paris.

The whole of the Prussian reserves commenced moving yesterday, and are rapidly coming up with the advance. The Prussian army under command of the Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, is rapidly advancing into the very heart of France, and on the line for Paris.

Midnight Despatches.
Great Battle on Saturday.

Prussians Victorious.
They take Saarbrück, and 4000 prisoners.

Battle lasted 11 hours.
Losses heavy on both sides.

Napoleon Sick.
Paris in Commotion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—A cable despatch from Carlsruhe to the New York Herald dated yesterday, 6:15 a. m., says: The forward movement of the right of the Prussian army from Treves and Sarrebourg continued on Friday.

The Prussians captured Saarbrück and vigorously attacked Thionville in overwhelming numbers. After some resistance the French threw away their arms and took to flight. At the same time the army commanded by the Crown Prince, moving on the direction of Biele, the advance guard of the French force making a slight resistance.

To-day, Saturday, there was a great advance of the whole German line. The King joined the army. Upwards of 5,000 Prussians have been forwarded to Frankfurt.

The position of the main body of the French army is at present unknown. The French forces are supposed to be concentrating at Metz. McMahon's corps is supposed to have fallen back from Biche and Haguenau towards Metz and Nancy.

There is a report that the Emperor Napoleon is ill.

The Prussians are moving on Metz. McMahon's August 6.—Two French men of war entered the Great Belt yesterday. This makes nineteen French war vessels now in the Baltic.

Berlin, August 7.—Prisoners from Wissembourg are passing through the city on their way to the fortified position of Spandau. The police authorities have issued a notice calling on the citizens to be dignified in their behavior toward and generous in their treatment of prisoners, though enemies.

Berlin, Aug. 7, (to New York direct).—The following despatch has been received this evening:—

Metz, Aug. 6, 10 p. m.—The French were turned back in their entrenched line, and commenced to retreat towards the interior of France. The French had commenced to advance from Saarbrück, which they had held since the famous battle of the 18th of August, and were now making three divisions against three companies of Prussians, but having to fall back, they burned that rich and unprotected town, and in withdrawing spread the conflagration by throwing hot shot into the city.

Saarbrück, Aug. 6, 7 p. m.—The town of Saarbrück was just re-taken by the First Prussian army, under command of Gen. Steinmetz.

Mayence, Aug. 6, 9 a. m.—The heads of Prussian columns approached the Saar on the 5th. This morning Gen. Kameis found the enemy to the west of Saarbrück in strong position in the mountain, near Spiesbach, and commenced immediately to attack them, following the sound of the cannon. Portions of the divisions of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th corps came up, and the French were driven back, and after a very severe fight the position occupied by Gen. Frossard was taken by assault. Gen. Frossard and Col. Neider are among the wounded.

Metz, Aug. 7, 6 a. m.—General Goben reports concerning the fight of Saarbrück, that many hundreds of prisoners were taken. From these we gather that Frossard's Corps was engaged. Our force in action was 4 divisions. Night close upon us and to the fighting. The enemy were repulsed by a heavy fire of artillery.

General Steinmetz arrived in the evening and took command. Frossard is dead. The loss heavy on both sides. A large number of officers of the enemy are killed.

Metz, Aug. 7, 4 a. m.—The Prince Royal reports as follows:—August 6th, evening.—In the battle in which we defeated McMahon, Wilson Corps had been reinforced by divisions from the Corps of Folly and Caniers, and we have taken two eagles, six muskets, and at least 4,000 prisoners. General Buz was wounded. Loss great on both sides.

Berlin, Aug. 6, 9 a. m.—The French Emperor has withdrawn his entire defense of Paris. His losses have been enormous.

The Prussians overtook the retreating French forces early on Saturday morning, and they were forced back. When at the Spies Hill, General Kameis commanded the attack, supported by Generals Barnard and Stumpgen.

Gen. Von Goben assumed command, acting on the supposition that the French would make a stand during their retreat. It was carried by Prussians at the point of the bayonet. This battle is known as that of Hagenau.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—King William sends the following despatch to the Queen:— "Good news. A great victory has been won by our troops. God be praised for his mercy. We captured 400 prisoners, 80 guns, 2 standards and 6 mitrailleurs, from the main army. The contest was very hard and lasted from 11 in the morning until 11 at night, when the French retreated, leaving the field to us. Our losses are heavy."

Metz, Aug. 7.—It is reported that Marshal McMahon was wounded in the battle yesterday. We have taken four thousand prisoners.

Cologne, Aug. 6, midnight.—There was a violent combat near Saarbrück to-day. It commenced at 11 a. m., and lasted until 9 o'clock to-night. It is still continuing. Our troops repulsed the enemy who have abandoned the field of battle. We have conquered. Our losses are heavy.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Serious apprehensions are entertained of disturbances in Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 7th, via LONDON.—The Senate and Corps Legislatif have been summoned to meet on Thursday, the 11th.

A despatch from Metz, 7 p. m., announcing McMahon's defeat, says that McMahon has been driven back from the front, and that the French army is in a state of confusion. The French press has crossed the frontier and is advancing on Paris.

The French speak of a great battle as imminent. "La Liberte" bids the people of France to rise as men and repel the invaders.

The despatch from the Emperor is dated 30 a. m., Monday, and says that McMahon's army has been driven back from the front, and that the French army is in a state of confusion.

"La Liberte" bids the people of France to rise as men and repel the invaders. The despatch from the Emperor is dated 30 a. m., Monday, and says that McMahon's army has been driven back from the front, and that the French army is in a state of confusion.

Admiral Bosc captured two gunboats at the mouth of the Elbe and bombarded Wilhelmshaven, but only to try the guns of his ironclads.

Eleven river gunboats were sent in sections from Toulon to Toulon, to bombard the city.

A new gunboat, invented by Forcy, has been sent from Cherbourg to Strasbourg. It is a small vessel, in fact, and is not a floating gun carriage, and able to carry the largest gun, though drawing only three feet of water.

A correspondent writes from Frankfurt on Thursday: The Frankforters regard the King did not come to see the manifestation of enthusiasm for the King, and see that Frankfurt is now as faithful as Berlin. The King's proclamation has been warmly welcomed.

Metz, Aug. 7, 5 a. m.—The morale of our troops is excellent this morning. It is impossible to give the exact figures of our losses. Confusion is spreading defensive measures. The three corps have all been able to give the enemy much trouble, and stop his onward movement.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The Journal Official says the defense of Paris is assured. It would require an enemy of half a million to molest its fortifications, while thirty thousand would suffice to defend them, and there are troops enough in and around the city to furnish the necessary garrisons. Those with the sailors from the fleet, which could be employed, the Garde Nationale, Garde Municipal and firemen, would make up a solid force of 100,000. Paris is free from danger.

A Special Cable Despatch to Herald London Aug. 7.—Paris, 7th, 10 p. m.—The situation may be summed up as follows: The Crown Prince has driven McMahon's army from Wissembourg, Lauterbourg and Werth, and probably completed the evacuation of Haguenau and Strasbourg. The victory of Gen. Goben at Spiesbach and Spiesbach and advance from Hamburg, has driven Frossard's corps from Forbach and St. Avold, and probably rendered Biche untenable. McMahon's corps is at present cut off at Metz. The prisoners taken by Crown Prince and Gen. Goben number eight thousand. Large Prussian armies are moving on Sarrebourg and in the southern part of Baden.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The Emperor has issued the following proclamation: "The opening of the war has not been favorable to us. We are under this reverse, and let us hasten to repair it. Let there be but one party in the land, that is, the French people. You will see me the day after to-day to defend the flag of France. I will do all good citizens to maintain order. To agitate would be to compromise our enemies. Those at the Palace of the Tuilleries, this 7th day of August, 1870, 11 p. m."

Signed, THE EMPEROR ROBERT, ROBERT.

"La Liberte" says: A special train left the station at half past five this evening, to bring back the Prince Imperial. We have strenuously urged his return and are glad it has been decided upon. In the grave crisis through which we are passing, the enemy should find opposed to him the breasts of men. The camp should no longer resemble a court of place.

"La Liberte" says: 100,000 Italians will be fighting with us in a few days under a treaty of alliance offensive and defensive. As for Austria, she remains the Austria of 1811. She has sold herself to her enemy, King William, for the German Republic left by the treaty of Prague. If victory should crown our arms France will remember Italy and she will not forget Austria.

LONDON, Aug. 6, via Paris 7.—It is reported that Don Fernando has written a letter to the Emperor, in which he has offered to support the French cause in return for the crown of Spain. The letter is said to have created sensation at Madrid.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Gen. Steinmetz telegraphs to Gen. Hommerich, chief of the staff at Berlin, as follows: "The conduct between Bismarck and Forbach was a bloody one, and closed only with night fall. It was opened by the 14th division, which was reinforced successively by 6 Battalions, 3 Batteries and one Cavalry. We took by assault the heights of Spiesbach, and flung the enemy back upon Forbach at the same time the 13th division advanced on Völklingen, took Forbach and with its advance guard reached Forbach towards evening."

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The 2^e Division Ultramontaine organ, sounds an alarm for Rome. It predicts the early invasion of the papal territory by Italy. It doubts the power of the Italian Government to resist the Prussians, even if it wished to, and it does not. Even moderate people at present can in power say the conquest of Rome is inevitable. In the practice of medicine, I have recommended FLOW'S Compound Syrup of Hyacinths, and have found it very beneficial in the following cases: Greater freedom in the action of the Lungs, increased and more easy expectoration in cases induced by dry cough, and decided augmentation of tone and vigor of the system. JAMES SALMON, M.D., Calumet, Quebec, Canada, N.B. Price $1.50 a bottle; 6 for $7.50. Sold by all druggists, or by J. L. Smith & Co., 41-1y

Parties who have used Johnston's Patent Western Plaster will be glad to attest its usefulness. They render doors and windows air-tight, and are useful in winter, for the relief of rheumatism, neuralgia, and other ailments. Sold by all druggists, or by J. L. Smith & Co., 41-1y

Applications from christian employers of total abstinence principles (preferred), with reference stating wages, etc., to be sent to Mr. Leslie Thom, (post paid) Distributing House, Belleville, July 27th, 1870. 47-2y

MISS Macpherson's Boys, A NOTHER detachment of these boys are expected to arrive at Belleville during next week, aged from 16 to 20; many of these have worked at different trades, cabinet making, also making pianos, carpentering, etc., others suitable for farms.

Butler's
Blackberry Cordial

THE most reliable preparation for Summer Complaint ever brought before the people. Since its introduction thousands have experienced the greatest benefit from its use. The lives of hundreds of children have been saved by the use of this most valuable preparation. It should be used without Blackberry Cordial. It is pleasant to take, perfectly harmless, free from opium, and will certainly cure the worst cases of Summer Complaint when everything else fails.

BERRY CORDIAL and don't allow worthless preparations to be palmed off on you. For sale by Druggists generally, and prepared only at APOTHECARIES HALL June 10, 1870. 54

McMAHON'S REPORT.

THE FRENCH ARMY REINFORCED.

PRUSSIAN ARMED AROUND STRASBOURG.

LOSSES IN LATE BATTLE.

FIGHT IN DERRY.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times writes that England has declined to join with Austria in a league proposed by Count Von Bismarck for guaranteeing the belligerents against the enemy. England's reason for declining is that the league could not save the North German Confederation in case Prussia should be defeated.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The Journal of Paris has published Marshal McMahon's report to the Emperor. The report says the enemy is greatly superior in numbers. He was forced to retreat, which was effected in good order. The enemy's pursuit was without vigor, and by no means threatening. He was able to send only a partial list of the killed and wounded.

MEXICO, Aug. 11.—It has been related that the army is concentrated around this place, and is being re-vitalized and reinforced.

MARSHAL BISMARCK is visiting and inspecting the troops under his command.

The report that the Prussians occupy Nancy is false.

Official information about the recent losses is still withheld, and Paris is exasperated by the bad faith of the Government which has promised to give all the news.

While Marshal McMahon admits the loss of 15,000 out of 19,000 men engaged, General Frossard's losses at Saarbrück are wholly unknown.

PARIS, Aug. 13, noon.—The "Tribune" special says: Communication with Strasbourg is interrupted. The Prussians are massed around the city. The Emperor is at Metz.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The first Prussian corps arrived at Philippsburg.

DERRY, Aug. 13.—The Bavarian army has passed through the Vosges, bivouacked last night at Dammergen, near Saarbrück.

General Sheridan of the American army, has left for the King's headquarters.

The Queen announces that she will take personal charge of the wounded of both nations, and their treatment will be identical.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—A desperate fight occurred at Derry to-day between Orangemen and Catholics, in which three persons were killed and several wounded.

SAY CHINESE, AUGUST 14.—Intelligence from China gives details of the massacre at Tientsin. Twenty-two Europeans and thirty or forty Chinese children were murdered. Nine soldiers of the Chinese army were killed. Eight Protestant churches, from which the missionaries had retreated, were gutted, and sixteen places of worship destroyed.

NEW YORK, August 14.—A cable despatch to the "Tribune" says no news is allowed to reach here from the front, and constant suspicion is agitated.

Wounded men by the Prussians guns are not severe, but the effects of the mitrailleuses are terrible. Numbers of men had both legs shot off and still live.

Edmond About is a prisoner at Tientsin.

Everybody has been called to arms, but it appears there are no arms to give them, and it is contemplated leaving to a part of the Guards the old old muskets. There are only 100 muskets per company at this camp, and the rest are to be used on the whole these arms are taught the use of.

Why the French army remains concentrated before Metz nobody understands. It is believed the Prussians are already at Nancy, and it is apparent that the Empire is rolled up like a scroll. What Housay said this morning is true: "For twenty years nobody in France has studied war seriously. Everything has been done superficially, and now we are in a fix."

The "Tribune" special from London, dated 14, says: The French army is in a fix. The French army is in a fix.

Two days ago, a despatch meant to be reassuring was planned, stating that Fally had established communication with McMahon. It now appears that these communications were established on the left of the battle.

McMahon's position is in all probability deplorable, driven as he is to the barren mountains of the Vosges, with the wreck of an army, and without arms or provisions. He is surrounded by the Prussians, and is in a fix.

Cantonniers came to Paris yesterday to consult with the Emperor, and has returned to his command.

THE GOVERNMENT REVIEWS THE SITUATION AND CONSIDERS THE POSITION HOPEFUL.

PARIS, August 14.—The Corps Legislatif yesterday, Jules Favre presented a petition praying that members of the religious communities be required to do military service like other citizens. The petition has 8,000 signatures. Other members introduced similar petitions.

M. Armande demanded the war loan to be raised to $500,000,000 francs.

The Minister of Finance stated that having consulted with officers of the Bank of France, he would support the proposition of Armande.

M. Chagot moved a delay in the payment of commercial bills be increased from thirty to forty days.

The Minister of the Interior answered that the Government was prepared to accept the decision of the Chambers and only asked for prompt action. The motion was carried.

Falkov was asked why the name of Le Breton appeared signed to a decree in the "Journal Officiel."

Falkov replied that the decree was drawn up prior to Le Breton's resignation. He stated that he was an absolute commander-in-chief of the army.

Falkov demanded immediate action on the proposal of Jules Favre in relation to the Corps Legislatif to appoint a Committee of defense.

Falkov stated that the discussion should be conducted with closed doors.

The President decided that there be no open to the public.

Falkov declared that debate must be brisk in such a session. The Chamber must pronounce before the safety of the State and the safety of the dynasty.

Falkov asked the Government was not opposed to the debate.

Mallat referred to the manifestations of applause on the part of the spectators with which Gambetta's attack on the Government had been received, and moved that the galleries be cleared and the Chamber go into secret session.

The spectators were then ordered out by the President and the doors closed.

After a stormy session the sitting was dissolved by the Senate, and the Chamber adjourned.

The text of the law voted yesterday by the Corps Legislatif has been officially promulgated as follows: First, The law is allowed to make protest, and the report of all applications.

Movements of Napoleon.

Colliery Explosion.

Violent Debate in Italian Chambers.

Paris, August 20, noon.—Advice from Chalons are encouraging. They show the presence there of a large and imposing force which, combining with that of Marshal Bazaine, must effect much.

Marshal Bazaine, whose retreat the Prussians say they have stopped, is on the contrary, preparing to enable him to support the French, either at Metz or Verdun, according to circumstances. He still keeps his plans and movements a profound secret.

General Trochu has issued another proclamation, the meaning of which, it is said, is that he has to stand a siege. The following is the text: "To the National Guard, to the Grand Mobile, to the troops and reserves in the army of Paris, to all defenders of the capital: In the midst of events of the highest importance, I have been appointed Governor. The honor I accept, the peril is also great. I depend on your patriotism. Should Paris be subjected to a siege, there will be more magnificent opportunity to prove to the world that long prosperity has not effeminized the country. You have before you the example of the army which has fought on against three. Their heroic struggle commands the admiration of all, show by your conduct that you are the feeling of the profound respect resting upon you."

A dispatch to the Corps Legislatif to-day announced to congress collected into the Chamber that the Prussians had entered Chalons-sur-Marne. This movement would indicate that the Prussians are marching on Paris by way of Sedan.

The capital has been supplied with an immense quantity of provisions and munitions during the past two weeks, and could now stand a siege for six months.

London, August 20, evening.—The Herald's special says a dispatch to the Prussian emperor reports that Marshal Bazaine made a desperate effort at daybreak to cut through the Prussian lines. After three hours' fighting he was repulsed with tremendous loss and again driven within the walls of Metz.

Serious disturbances have broken out in the Department of Vendee, growing out of the belief of the bigoted peasantry, encouraged by their teachers, that the present war is one of Lutheranism against the Catholic Church. Pretexts have been assailed relentlessly.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The "Tribune" to-day says the following with regard to the movement of the Emperor: "Since the left bank on the 14th, and his suite have traversed all the villages where combats have been fought, the Emperor has been surrounded by his army. He is at Longeville on the 14th, and at Gravelotte on the 15th. In the latter neighborhood the Emperor has been hidden at several points, and the Emperor had barely passed through when sharp fighting commenced. Several French regiments had to be detailed to protect him on his way. Next day he passed through Conflans, breakfasted at Reims, and slept at Verdun. Only a few moments later he left Reims, and reached Metz on the 16th at the same place. On his way from Verdun to Chalons, the Emperor passed in plain view of the enemy's pickets. To-day he is at Reims.

Florence, Aug. 20.—There was a violent debate in the Italian Chambers yesterday. Dep. Melloni accused ministers of violating the neutrality of Italy by sending troops to defend the Pope. One of the ministers in reply to the statement, said that the minister of foreign affairs, who was travelling in Sicily under a false name. The Government was well aware of all his plans, and was determined to defend them. Melloni would be regularly tried. He stated further that Sicily was specially inflammatory.

London, Aug. 20.—Another dreadful colliery explosion occurred at Wigan, in Lancashire. Thirty persons were killed and many wounded.

LATER.—Several more deaths are reported to have occurred at the Wigan colliery explosion.

The Fort of Mook, in London, August 21.—The loss of the French cannot be less than 50,000 killed, wounded and missing at Gravelotte, Toul and Verdun. They have lost 15,000 men in each battle, including at the latter place 4,000 prisoners.

Paris, August 21.—The Government publishes a note designed to reassure the public. News from the front may be seldom given, but it is not so that account information. The commander-in-chief must speak of nothing but accomplished facts.

"Le Figaro" asserts that the camp at Chalons has been broken up, and that the Prussians are now close to the corps of the Prince Royal. If so, the Prussians now have around them Marshal Bazaine, with his 150,000 men, and about Metz on the one hand, and Marshal McMahon with his own corps and the large force which was at Chalons on the other.

Reported Battle.

Watching the Garibaldians.

McMahon's Movements.

Position of Bazaine.

Perils of the Prussians.

Loss of 170,000 men.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—A special to the Herald reported the battle that occurred yesterday near Rheims. A heavy cannonading was heard, but no particulars reported. The engagement was probably between McMahon and Prince Frederick. The army of the Crown Prince at Bar le Duc has been joined by King William's forces. The united army is marching and will be before Paris on Tuesday or Wednesday, the great object of the King is to conclude the campaign as speedily as possible.

Toulon, Aug. 28.—The Orizans train, left for the Mediterranean squadron, has left for Civita Vecchia to capture the port as a precaution against the Garibaldians.

It is reported the northern movement of Marshal McMahon is now fully confirmed. Large reinforcements have been sent from Paris by the Northern Railway for McMahon's army. The tactics of McMahon appear to be to capture the bridge over the valleys of the Meuse and the banks of his new line, and then sweep along the borders of Belgium, avoiding an encounter with the Prussians that would be likely to involve a pitched battle. This movement he will be enabled to leave the Prussians on the south, and will probably effect a junction with Bazaine, north of Metz.

A special to the Herald in a letter from a correspondent at Rheims 24th, says it is reported that Bazaine with a portion of his army is between Montmédy and Longueville, on the Belgian frontier, where he is using the railway to the north of Metz. The report is considered doubtful.

The capture of Strasbourg lately made a successful sortie and captured a company of cattle and munitions.

The "Constitutional" says, the army of the Prince Royal, reinforced by part of the army of Frederick Charles, is marching on Paris through the valleys of the Meuse and the Moselle. The Prussians must know how adventuresome is such an attempt, and are aware of the peril in which they are leading their main army. McMahon may cut off communications and then attack between two fires. To avoid this danger the Prussians made great efforts, they three times attacked Bazaine, with overwhelming forces, which the French army successfully repulsed. The enemy then despairing of being able to conquer him, decided to keep Bazaine checked and march on to Paris, from Paris to Nierke, the nearest point on the German frontier is more than a hundred leagues. The line of Prussians must have a long march, numbers being short of food, and the Mobile Guard, to be able to subvert on our territory, the 600,000 invading Prussians must extend their lines vastly, and must disperse their force, a thing so fatal to us in the commencement of the campaign. Our revenge, says the "Constitutional" in conclusion, is near.

Aspetal to the Herald says one hundred and seventy thousand Prussians have been killed and wounded during the war.

"La Liberté" of to-day says, a General of the army of the Rhine arrived in Paris last night, and had an interview with the Emperor, and started immediately on return. We may expect within a day or two brilliant success. "La Liberté" adds, a personage who is supposed to be on the staff, affirms the army of Bazaine and McMahon are near each other.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—An important article in the Herald is reported in the Province of New York and Georgia, and troops are leaving Madrid for the scene.

BERLIN, August 28.—There are great rejoicings here. A public procession, carrying four mitrailleurs, twenty-three cannons and one eagle captured from the French, passed through the streets. The Queen came out on the balcony of the palace and received the congratulations of the people.

The disposition of the different German armies is as follows: There are 180,000 men, containing 40,000 men each. The first army, under Helmuth, has the 1st, 7th and 9th corps, at Metz. The second army, under Prince Frederick Charles, has the 3rd, 5th and 10th corps, at Metz. The third army, under the Crown Prince, has the 5th, 6th and 11th corps and two Bavarian corps, marching on Paris. The fourth army, under the Crown Prince of Saxony, has the 4th and 12th corps and the Saxons and Prussian guards. The fifth army, under General Wender, has the Wurtemberg and Baden divisions, and is engaged in the siege of Strasbourg. The sixth army, under the Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, is on the Rhine and the seventh, under the Duke of Saxe-Weimar, is at Berlin. Three of these armies are held in reserve.

New York, August 28.—The correspondent of the Tribune with McMahon's headquarters, writes from Reims on Thursday morning. We left Reims on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock and arrived at Reims at 3 o'clock on Thursday morning. The troops had preceded us. The town and surrounding country had been great camp. McMahon's army here consists of the 1st, 5th, 7th and 12th corps and the cavalry of Carabott's sixth corps. The Emperor and Prince Imperial are here. We were on Friday morning. The troops have already started. By Friday morning the whole army will be gone. The movement is rapid in the extreme, but the troops are fresh and full of spirit.

The Tribune's correspondent telegraphs from Paris on Sunday. All our correspondents have been ordered to quit the French army.

The same correspondent writes on Saturday evening: "McMahon still refuses to talk to the German Committee."

The military career of King William of Prussia extends over a period of 55 years. His Majesty, who was born in 1797, was present at the battle of Waterloo, and is now but eighteen years of age.

The enceinte or rampart which encloses Paris is twenty-five miles in length, and contains ninety-eight bastions. Outside the rampart are fourteen large and very strong fortifications. The construction of the fortifications of Paris was commenced in the year 1841.

were at first intended more particularly to serve as a check upon the people of the city in case of insurrection. Latterly, however, their character has been very considerably changed, and they have been armed with a view to the defence of the city against outside foes.

The German Uhlans are objects of to
